Book one or more days at any time during the event, pick what you would like to do, and print and pay on the day. More information Q: Segmenting the data for an interview question I've been training on ELI5 questions on interview day, and one of them is about segmenting the data. I'm not quite sure what it means and what the algorithm should be. Please be detailed. A: That's a Coding Interview question. Basically, a segmentation problem is a problem whose solution is a partition of the given data. For example, the data is a string and you have to find the
