Changing the parameter number inside a function arguments function

get_choice(options) { if(options.length >= 1) { return options[0]; } else{ throw new Error("Please set at least 1 option"); } } function calculateSum(items, ctrl) { console.log("Inside Function Sum"); return items.reduce(function(sum, item) { return sum + item[ctrl]; }, 0); } CalculateSum(get_choice, "price", "sum");

In the code above, I'm trying to get the sum from the items array. But it's throwing a error with the calculation because sum is a variable within the arguments. So I want to be able to just say calculateSum(get_choice, "price", sum) but it's throwing an error. Is there a way for the function to recognize the 'sum' value and be able to add the price value? A: The problem is that by the time you try to call the function (as you are doing in your CalculateSum(get_choice, "price", sum)) in the code you have shown, the sum doesn't exist.

Q: Posterior probability of Normal/Negative Binomial
I have a question in my Statistical Software book and I am not finding a rule for this. The book states that it is just a simple Poisson. But it would be nice to find a rule for this. If someone could provide me a rule, that would be nice. Let X be a random variable with a $\text{NB}(r, p)$ distribution, and let Y be a random variable with a $\text{Norm}(m, \sigma)$ distribution, where m is the mean and σ^2 is the variance. Calculate the posterior probability of Y given X .

A: I was trying to find the density function for $\text{NB}(r, p)$, so I was trying to find rules for estimating the parameters of $\text{NB}(r, p)$ with p fixed, before estimating the parameters of Y . I do not have the book to check, but I think the rule is to choose the parameter p based
